Background

This directory was produced by Western Isles Older Peoples Partnership in conjunction with NHS Western Isles' Health Promotion Department.

A recent Scottish survey funded by Community Food and Health (Scotland) included some information on the wide range of community and voluntary sector activities in the Western Isles. With 23% of the population over pensionable age and the variety of groups and clubs that provide this valuable service for our older population, it is not simply about sharing food together, but above all the volunteers committing time and energy and also provide a continuing source of friendship and kinship. For more information on the report Meals and Messages please contact Community Food and Health (Scotland) by visiting their website: www.communityfoodandhealth.org.uk or telephoning: 0141 226 5261.
